Exile Lacks Love For Bolshevists

Emma Goldman, Anarchist, Deported from America, Finds Her Own People Are "Merely Scene Shifters"—Expresses Confidence in Supreme Court.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Nov. 15.—Emma Goldman's hope for a return to the country where she preached revolution and accomplished only her own deportation dimmed with the tremendous victory of President Coolidge, she told International News Service today in the first authorized interview she has granted since her return to England.

The anarchist exile charged that the proceedings under which she was deported from the United States were fraudulent and would have been revoked if she had appealed to the Supreme court, an ambition she thought she might have realized had the election "brought in a more liberal government."

"The only way they were able to deport me was to revoke the citizenship of my husband of long ago, whose whereabouts have long been unknown" she declared.

"Through marriage I became an American citizen. But in 1919 I was very anxious to get to Russia, so I did not appeal then and now I can't because I can't enter the country."

Miss Goldman indicated that a different outcome of the election would have enabled her to return to the United States long enough to carry through the appeal, as the result of which, she is confident, she would have been permitted to remain.

"I love the American people. I love America," she continued, with the intensity which marks her radical preachings and her conversation as well. "I love the America of Emerson and Walt Whitman and Lincoln.

"I don't love the America of Coolidge. Harding at least had some warmth of feeling. Coolidge has none.

"I don't love the American government, but the government is not America. I won't attempt to secure permission to return although I'd like to go back because my friends are all there."

Miss Goldman asserted that the re-election of Coolidge was simply another evidence of "the reaction which is sweeping the world."

"Naturally America didn't escape the disease," she continued. "I am not predicting how long reaction will last. I'm no prophet, although I and others who opposed the world war have been vindicated by events.

"I don't believe reaction will bring any serious change in America although it's giving the Bolshevists added arguments. I am opposed to radical change unless the people are ready for it. Revolution must come from within. Even if all the foreign born in America handed themselves together for revolution it wouldn't come. The native born must first desire it.

"When revolution does come it must change not only institutions but values. That's my criticism of the Bolshevists. They're merely scene shifters."

Ambassador to Head Krupps

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Dr. Otto Wiedfeld, German ambassador to the United States, will return to Germany in January to resume his position as the head of Krupps, it was learned today. No official statement has been issued by the embassy but Mrs. Wiedfeldt departed today for Germany and let friends know that she was not returning and that Dr. Wiedfeldt would follow her in January.

B. C. VAN INGEN TALKS TO MEN'S BIBLE CLASS.

At the meeting of the Men's Bible Class Friday evening, B. C. Van Ingen, principal of the local high school, talked to the Men's Bible Class of the Fair Street Reformed Church. He took as his subject, "The Business of Running a High School of Today," and many of his listeners could not help but compare the difference between their school days and the program of studies taught today. Mr. Van Ingen spoke of the visits made by the classes to the different industrial plants of the city so that the students might get a more practical knowledge of how that particular article was manufactured. He also told of the visits to the different departments of the city in which the students always gather some lasting knowledge of the working of those departments. Mr. Van Ingen's talk was very interesting and educational. There are over a thousand pupils at the high school. It was evident from his remarks that Mr. Van Ingen understood and loved his work.

Three Bicycles Stolen.

The theft of three bicycles from the Y. M. C. A. was reported to the police Friday evening. The bicycles stolen were owned by Kenneth Kendedy of 39 Downs street, Francis Brownrigg, 210 Downs street, and Carl Kallop of 112 Cedar street.

Stieler Divorce Case Held Over

For Corroboration of Testimony Given by Peter Fuss at Special Term of Supreme Court—Other Cases.

The case of Helen Stieler against Arthur J. Stieler for divorce was held over for corroboration of testimony given at the adjourned special term of the Supreme court held at the chambers of Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck in the county court house at 10 o'clock this morning.

Peter Fuss, agent for the Hoffman Brewery located at 51 Hone street, testified that he and Stieler visited a house on 16th street, West New York, in company with a pair of women whom they picked up on the street. Three or four of these visits were made in 1922. He stated that Stieler visited the same woman each time. She was tall and had dark hair, he said.

Mr. Fuss said that he came to St. Remy in 1903 and has been connected with the Hoffman Brewery Company for 17 years. He is unmarried and lives in the company building at 51 Hone street.

Mrs. Helen Stieler testified that knowledge of Mr. Stieler's alleged indiscretions came to her only recently and that they had never been condoned. Mrs. Stieler lives at 244 Clinton avenue where she conducts a restaurant business.

During the war Stieler was committed to the Atlanta, Georgia, reformatory for pro-German utterances. When he was released it is reported that he went to Hamburg, Germany, and is established in business there. He is said to have visited Kingston some six months ago.

Judge Hasbrouck granted an order of publication in the case of Mary Dryer against Arthur Dryer under the recent Enoch Arden law, Frank W. Brooks appearing for plaintiff.

He also granted an order of discontinuance in the case of Henry Morse, as administrator, etc., of Harold Morse, deceased, against Henry Snyder and Oscar Snyder. Frank W. Brooks for plaintiff.

The adjourned hearing on writ of certiorari for review of the assessment of Central Hudson Steamboat Company in the action brought by that company against William B. Martin as assessor of the city of Kingston was adjourned again for two weeks. Amos Van Etten appeared for the relator and James Jenkins, corporation counsel, for defendant.

Jersey Fire May Burn for Days

Property Loss in Jersey City Conflagration May Reach $6,000,000—Three Entire City Blocks Laid Waste.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 15.—Explosions continued and flames still raged today in the ruins of factories and tenements laid waste by fire—this city's greatest—yesterday.

All through the night firemen, their faces wan and ghastly in the fitful glare of the blaze, their bodies almost numb with exhaustion, continued their efforts to extinguish the conflagration suddenly loosed by an explosion in the Battelle and Renwick saltpetre works. They knew, however, that the fight had been won. Progress of the fire had been checked. It was stated by fire officials, however, that it might continue to blaze and smoulder for days.

Latest estimates were that 2,000 persons had been made homeless. Property damage will reach $6,000,000, it was reported.

Three investigations, begun by police and fire departments and the county prosecutor, were under way to determine if any one, through criminal negligence, had been culpable.

A survey showed that three entire city blocks had been laid waste, buildings on three others damaged and fifty firemen, policemen and rescue workers overcome by smoke or injured. Nine of them still were in hospitals.

The saltpetre works, the Richards Chemical Company plant, the nine story building of the American Sugar Refining Company, storage warehouses of Colgate and Company and of the refining company and scores of frame tenements were destroyed.

Armistice Day Observance.

The Y. M. H. A. will observe Armistice Day Sunday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock at the Hebrew School. Dr. B. Schoen and a social worker will be in charge of the program for the evening. Tokio, Nov. 15.—Twelve fishing boats were sunk and ten are missing in a storm that swept Shibotsu Island off the Hokkaido coast line. A toll of fifty lives is believed to have been taken by the storm.

To Discontinue U. & D. Stations

P. S. Commission Grants Permission to Discontinue Station Agents During Winter Months at Cold Brook, Mt. Pleasant and Haines Falls.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 15.—The public service commission Friday authorized the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company to discontinue the services of a station agent at Cold Brook, Ulster county, from January 1, 1925, to May 24, 1925; at Mt. Pleasant, Ulster county, from November 15, 1924, to May 24, 1925; and at Haines Falls, Greene county, from November 15, 1924, to April 30, 1925.

The company's request for authority to discontinue its agent at Davenport Center, Delaware county, was denied.

It was shown on the investigation by the commission that the business at Cold Brook, Mt. Pleasant and Haines Falls is entirely a summer service business. Under the orders issued Friday the railroad will continue its freight service at Cold Brook, Mt. Pleasant and Haines Falls, and passenger trains will be stopped as at present. Arrangement was made in the order for handling freight business at these points.

The commission holds that the question presented in the petition to do away with station agents at the four stations is unique. When the general financial situation is considered and when there appears to be no prospect in the future that conditions will improve, there enters into the decision in the case the question of whether the efforts of the company to maintain the property as a going concern and serve all of its territory should not be recognized. It says, "Inconvenience suffered by the respective communities when compared to the property as a whole will be relatively small and will be for a period when local activities are for the most part dormant except at Davenport Center."

The commission holds that the company should continue its agent at Davenport Center because of the volume of business handled there at all times of the year.

Wappingers Line Gets Bigger Fare

P. S. Commission Authorizes One-Cent Increase to Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Falls Electric Railway Until June, 1, 1925—Ten Cent Fare Asked.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 15.—The public service commission Friday authorized the Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Electric Railway to charge a nine-cent fare in each of its operating zones in Poughkeepsie and nearby territory until June 1, 1925, when the order may be reopened upon application for a review as to operating results of the company for 1924, including a six months' period under a nine-cent fare and for whatever determination may then be deemed necessary. The commission holds that the nine-cent fare will give the company operating expenses, taxes and a fair return upon the value of the property used in giving public service.

An eight cent fare is now charged in all of the three operating zones, and under the application of the company decided Friday, the railroad asked for the right to charge a ten cent fare.

The fare increase becomes effective upon one day's notice.

Automobile Collisions.

Mrs. C. B. O'Reilly received a cut over one eye Friday when the auto in which she was riding struck William McCullough's truck, driven by Albert Rathgeber of 361 Albany avenue, according to the report made of the accident by Mr. Rathgeber to the police. He stated that a car driven by Theresa O'Reilly struck his truck at Albany and Bruyn avenues. His truck was not damaged.

A collision between the cars of Aloysius J. Murray of 381 Delaware avenue and Martin Jordan on Hasbrouck avenue, near Mill street, was reported to the police Friday. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Junior League Ball Tickets

Tickets for Thanksgiving Eve Function on Sale—Oriental Features Suggested by Famous French Artist-Architect — Proceeds For Baby Welfare Work.

Tickets for the Junior League Oriental Ball, to be held at the armory Thanksgiving eve, November 26, have been placed on sale at Connelly drug store, Strand; William O'Reilly, Broadway; Burgevin, Inc., Main street; E. Winter's Sons, Wall street; and may be obtained from league members. The price of tickets is announced in the advertising columns of today's issue.

The decorations for the ball this year are most elaborate. One feature will be a row of boxes flanking the orchestra, which will be placed against the wall of the armory. A limited number of boxes are for sale and may be obtained from any member of the Junior. M. Pierre Cormier, famous French artist and architect, who designed the Oriental features of the Beaux Arts Ball at the Hotel Astor, New York city, was consulted regarding certain elements of his design, and his suggestions will be carried out at the armory in the construction of the Oriental bazaar. The results obtained will unquestionably be of great interest to the people of Kingston.

The music, as has been previously announced, will be furnished by Wheeler Wadsworth, said to be the greatest saxophone player in this country, whose orchestra so greatly pleased those attending the Junior League fete last year. Mr. Wadsworth is well known through phonograph records, of which he has made many. It will also be remembered that just previous to his appearance at the fete in Kingston last year, he and his orchestra made a tour of the capitals of Europe, extending his fame abroad as well as at home. The league feels itself fortunate in again securing his services as he is in great demand for social affairs in New York city. Mr. Wadsworth's program will be a delight, not only to those dancing, but also to those who will come to hear so eminent a New York orchestra.

Ample provision has been made for seating those who do not care to dance. Also the scheme of decoration provides attractive resting places between the dance numbers. The combination of attractive setting, unusual music, and the worthy cause for which the entertainment is held, will attract a large attendance, assuring the success not only of the ball, but the continuation of the Junior League's baby welfare work which is so highly endorsed by the board of health of this city.

State Trooper At Local High

Lieutenant Moore of the New York State Constabulary Addresses Student Body and Discusses Violations With Civics Students.

Friday morning Lieutenant Moore of the New York State constabulary, addressed the pupils of Kingston High School. The keynote of Mr. Moore's speech was "The Duties of True Citizenship." The lieutenant explained that true citizenship begins at home. He also paid great compliments to the first leader of the state constabulary of New York state, Colonel George F. Chandler, of this city.

The real purpose of Lieutenant Moore's coming to Kingston was to speak to the civics class of the high school and to raise questions from the class for open discussion. This was done with great success in the six consolidated civics classes. One of the biggest questions raised during the day was "What are some of the violations regarding the operating of motor vehicles, which state troopers usually watch for." This is one of the practical methods employed by the Kingston High School for teaching civics. Lieutenant Moore stated that Kingston High School was the only high school in the state to invite a member of the state constabulary to speak to its civics students.

BARN AT MARLBOROUGH BURNED THURSDAY NIGHT

Milton and Newburgh firemen assisted Marlborough's hose company in fighting a fire on the property of the Schantz mill Thursday night. Despite the efforts of the firemen, the storage barn on the premises, which contained large quantities of hay and straw, were burned to the ground. Cluett Schantz, owner of the place, says that the loss of the building and its contents amounts to $2,000. The firemen, however, did save Mr. Schantz's house although it twice caught fire from flying sparks. The cause of the blaze is not known. The barn was a one story structure of wood. The Newburgh company which responded was Leonard Engine.

4 Dead, 19 Injured In Florida Wreck

Florida East Coast Railroad Has Its First Fatal Accident When Rear Car Jumps Track at Station and Turns Over.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 15.—An official statement issued here today by J. S. Owen, general superintendent of the Florida East Coast Railway, placed the number of dead in last night's wreck near Wabasso at four. Nineteen others, he said, were injured.

Of those injured or shocked, none suffered serious hurts, Owen said, and all were rapidly recuperating. Special trains brought 13 of the injured back to St. Augustine, while six were taken to a hospital in Fort Pierce. All of the injured are under the care of railroad physicians.

This is the first time in the history of the Florida East Coast that a passenger had been killed on that road, officials declared.

The wreck occurred just as No. 29 was pulling into the station at Wabasso.

The rear car jumped the track and turned over, officials said, pinning the four killed and a number of the injured under the wreckage.

The track was cleared and traffic resumed within 45 minutes.

The train was loaded with tourists from all over the nation, who were coming to Florida to spend the winter.

Two Meet Death In Stolen Auto

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Riding in an automobile which had been stolen an hour earlier, Eugene Schnabel, 26, and Otto Etna, 22, both of this city, were killed early today when an east bound express of the New York Central struck the car at the Coldwater crossing.

The men attempted to beat a west bound freight across the tracks and were caught by the express. Engineer Frank Butler, of Buffalo, said he did not know he had struck the car but stopped his train when he smelled gasoline. The automobile was demolished.

Police reported the car was stolen from the city at 2 o'clock this morning, an hour before the accident occurred. Schnabel was a professional racing driver and was sending the car ahead at fast speed, according to witnesses.

Mental Clinic in County Building

Monthly Mental Clinic Conducted By Middletown State Hospital Will Be Held at 74 John street Next Friday.

The monthly mental clinic conducted by the Middletown State Hospital will hold its regular session in the County Building, 74 John street, on Friday, November 21, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Dr. Arthur S. Moore will be the specialist in attendance. Mrs. Osborne will be the social worker.

This clinic is free to the public and the specialist in attendance is ready to give advice relative to any nervous or mental condition about which he is consulted. Whenever a patient is referred by a family physician proper instructions are give the patient and he is referred back. No efforts are made in any way to take the patient from his regular physician. It is the aim to give assistance and advice in regard to the proper course to be taken and to do everything possible in the line of prevention.

The need of preventive measures against the occurrence of these conditions has become apparent and the general public is gradually awakening to the fact that unless proper hygenic measures are adopted there is a tendency for an increase in the number of people who are suffering from mental disease and there will also be a gradual mental deterioration in the general population.

Therefore, it is advisable to seek advice early in all mental conditions and to obtain treatment as soon as conditions manifest themselves. By doing so it will frequently result in an amelioration or a subsidence of the condition, whereas if allowed to go on the symptoms will become more aggravated and finally a stage may be reached where relief or cure is difficult.

The New York State Hospital Commission which has the general supervision of all the state hospitals, is gradually extending its activities outside the institution by the establishment of mental clinics throughout the state. Well trained physicians from the hospital who have had long experience in mental disorders are assigned to this important work and may be consulted by relatives or friends in regard to the proper course to be taken.

The clinic is not only for new cases but for patients who are on parole from the hospital. The parole system has gradually grown so that at the present time a patient may leave the hospital who, although not recovered, is able to get along outside of an institution under proper supervision. These patients report at the out-patient clinic from time to time and in that way are helped to adjust themselves to their surroundings.

This clinic is recommended to be used freely as a consultation center for all in this community for any mental cases which come under their observation.

Fake War Savings Certificates

More than $5,000,000 of Them Printed and Distributed, Says Secret Service Agent in Arresting Cleveland Attorney.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 15.—What federal officers said was a nation wide plot to manufacture and sell bogus $5 war savings certificates was exposed here today with the arrest of J. V. Zottarelli, Cleveland attorney, in a berth on a train, as he arrived from Washington. The arrest was made by William Harper of the United States secret service, who declared that one of the biggest plots in the history of counterfeiting had been unearthed.

War savings stamps, dated 1919, to the amount of more than $5,000,000, had been printed in Chicago and distributed throughout the country, Harper said.

According to Harper, the plot was confined exclusively to cities having large Italian populations and that illiterate members of that race were used as dupes of the plot leaders. Two persons, whose names are withheld, were arrested before Zottarelli and are held without bond as government witnesses. At least seventeen more arrests will be made in Cleveland, Harper said.

The counterfeit stamps were said to have been so perfect that they had passed inspection at banks and even at the United States treasury itself.

Jones Called Self "Colored Man"

Naturalization Papers of Rhinelander's Father-in-law Show He Thus Described Himself—Young Couple May Go To Europe.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 15.—On the naturalization papers of George Jones, whose daughter, Beatrice Alice Jones of New Rochelle, married Leonard Kip Rhinelander, member of one of New York's wealthiest and most distinguished families, appears in the declaration of intended citizenship:

"George Jones (colored man).

"I, George Jones, (colored man), do declare by oath that it is my bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States and do now renounce all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state or sovereignty whatever and particularly to the queen of Great Britain and England, of whom I am a subject.

(Signed) "GEORGE JONES."

In the papers Jones said he was born in Leicestershire, England, on May 12, 1859, came to this country from Liverpool in May, 1891. He gave his address as 485 Pelham Road, New Rochelle. His business, he said, was that of contractor.

Jones married Elizabeth Brown, a white woman, of Lincolnshire, England. There are three children—Emily Elizabeth, born December 4, 1895; Beatrice Alice, born June 13, 1899; and Grace Marie, born July 19, 1903, all in Pelham, the certificate stated.

Jones became an American citizen on May 24, 1912, before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser.

The marriage license of his daughter, Emily Elizabeth, who married Robert David Brooks, a Pelham Manor Gardener, on March 6, 1915, also is on file here and reads:

Emily Elizabeth Jones of New Rochelle, a waitress, born in Pelham, 19 years old and colored; father, George Jones; mother, Elizabeth Brown, both born in England.

"Married to Robert David Brooks of Pelham Manor, 22 years old and colored, born in Virginia. Father, Elex Brooks; mother, Mollie Williams, both of the United States."

It had been denied by everyone connected with the Jones family that they were of other than white blood.

The record here sets forth that the age of the bride is 25. She said in her application for a marriage license that she was 23 years of age. Young Rhinelander is 22.

The first papers, issued in Mount Vernon, were signed by Hiram J. Collins, clerk, and the oath of allegiance was signed before Franklin Montrose as special county clerk.

May Travel in Europe.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Rumor persisted today, in the absence of definite information as to their whereabouts that Leonard Kip Rhinelander, scion of wealth and social position and his bride of a month, Miss Beatrice Alice Jones, either had gone or were preparing to go to Europe.

The young couple have given up their apartment, it was learned. Friends recalled Mrs. Rhinelander often had spoken of the likelihood of a trip to Europe after she was married.

Dies Amid Ruins Of Three Stills

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Buried beneath the ruins of three exploded stills, the body of Antonio Coffaro, 55, market proprietor, was found by firemen fighting a fire in the market early this morning.

The fire broke out following a terrific explosion which rocked the neighborhood at 5:30 o'clock. Flames immediately burst through the building.

Firemen started the search for Coffaro when members of his family reported him missing. After an hour they found him under the debris of the stills, which were in the rear of the market under the proprietor's home upstairs.

Coffaro's family told police the explosion occurred a few minutes after the victim arose from bed and went down stairs, saying he was going to fix the fire.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NURSE FOG

"Well," said Nurse Fog, "I've certainly just heard a funny thing."

The Mist grandchildren were playing about and having a beautiful time and Nurse Fog was looking after them.

"Won't you tell us what you heard?" they asked Nurse Fog.

So Nurse Fog told them.

"I heard someone say that the fog was so thick you couldn't cut it with a knife," she said.

"Dear me," said each of the little Mist grandchildren, "will we be cut with knives?" And they shivered, little damp, misty shivers.

"No," said one, "that couldn't be, as you just said the person remarked that the fog could not be cut with a knife."

"It was a very funny speech to make," said Nurse Fog. "Of course we couldn't be cut with a knife. It was silly even to have said such a thing.

"We're not sandwiches or pie crust or anything like that. We can't be cut with a knife, whether we are thick or thin.

"It is not because we're so thick that we can't be cut with a knife.

"We can't be cut with a knife anyway!

"If we were sandwiches of fog or a pie crust of fog as I said, then we could be cut with a knife, but we're just plain, regular Fog people, and so I consider such a speech very silly."

"Very silly," said all the Mist grandchildren.

"Of course the person meant that there was a great deal of fog today.

"Dear Me," Said Each of the Little Mist Children.

a very dense fog, but the speech made was foolish.

"I heard the people in one house say they couldn't see the dog across the street.

"Now that particular dog across that particular street where those people live has a way of leaning out of the window. He puts his front paws out of the window and he leans his head out and looks up and down the street.

"His ears flap in the wind sometimes.

"He has been away to the seashore and the people across the street have been so glad to see him back home for they had missed him.

"But they can't see him because

"Do you know what we do? We hide behind dogs behind our great mist

"The cows have all gone in the barn," said Nurse Fog, "and a calf who was bounding about is now quiet because they can hardly see what they're about.

"We've just spread all over today.

"We're the ones who're having their say today.

"I heard Prince Icicle say that before long he and his family were going to come out and decorate the fences and the benches and the trees, and make some lovely pictures and works of art

"But they are resting now and they won't be doing this for quite a few weeks as yet.

"Yes, today is our day. We're having such fun and we enjoy it when we make the whole world seem small.

"People can't see any distance. Once I heard a small boy who went for an automobile ride say:

"'Are we still in the world?' He had gone so far he thought surely the world could not be so big.

"Well, if he notices us today he will not see a long distance, nor really dare to go a long distance as he did that day.

"For we are having our own way."

"Yes, we're having our own way," the Mist grandchildren said.

And how happy they were that they had a nurse who let them have their own way and who liked them to have their own way.

Truly, they thought, they were very fortunate.

For Value Received

Little Sam, while taking tea with a neighbor, was given a piece of bread and butter. He said "Thank you" very politely.

"That's right, Sammy," said the hostess. "I like to hear little boys say 'Thank you.'"

"Well," said Sammy, "if you want to hear me say it again you might put some jam on it."

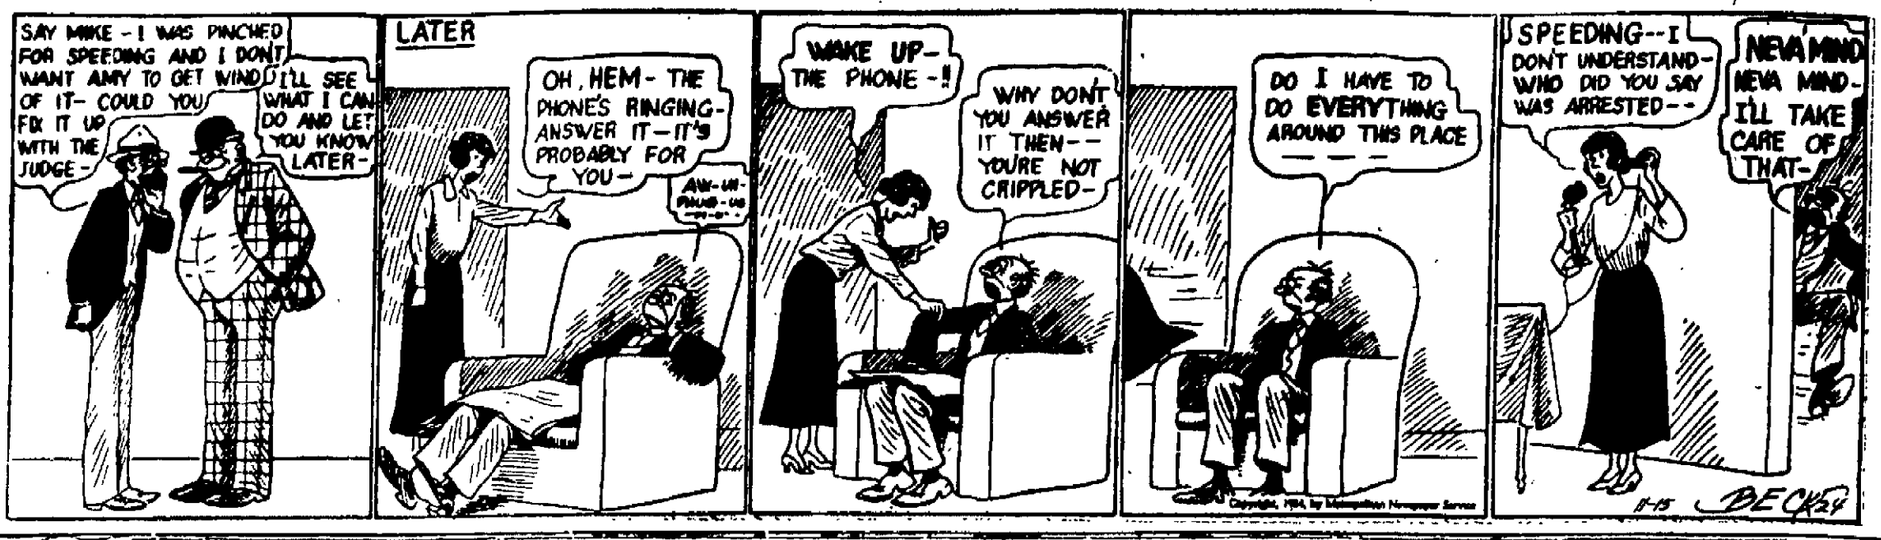
GAS BUGGIES—It's Funny What a Difference A Few Minutes Make

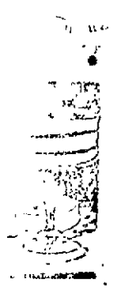


THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

Half of the joy of life is in little things taken on the run. Let us do it if we must—even the sands do that—but let us keep our hearts young and our eyes open that anything worth while shall escape us. And everything is worth its while if we only grasp it and its significance.—Victor Cherbuliez.

GRANDMOTHER'S DISHES.



When we look over some of the [illegible] days ago we lose [illegible] of the assurance that our generation produced the best cooks. Here is a cake named for the well-loved Marquis Lafayette which was always served covered with white frosting and decorated with an American eagle, in tinted icings:

Lafayette Cake.—Work to a cream half a cupful of butter and beat to a cream, add gradually four cupfuls of sugar (the fine granulated or powder), and whip to a white fluff. Sift six cupfuls of flour with one teaspoonful of soda and two of cream of tartar (three times), beat to a froth two dozen egg whites. Add the flour and egg whites gradually to the butter and sugar mixture and flavor with a scant teaspoonful of vanilla and one-half teaspoonful of almond extract. Bake in a large loaf for ninety minutes. Half the recipe will make a good-sized cake.

Monsieur Giron's Fruit Punch.—Cook until a thick strup is formed from one cupfuls of sugar and two cups of water, cool slightly and add two cupfuls of strawberry juice, one cupful of pineapple juice, one-half cupful of orange juice, the same of lemon juice, and one quart of water. Chill for several hours, then serve in a punch bowl poured over orange water ice.

Rice Waffles.—Mash one cupful of well-boiled rice with a tablespoonful of butter and one-half teaspoonful of salt, add a pint of milk, two well-beaten eggs, and flour to make a thin batter mixed with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat well and bake on a hot waffle iron. Hominy may be used in place of the rice.

Baked Apples.—Peel and core good colored apples and put to cook in a deep crock or bean pot. Bake with little water added until the apples are tender; sweeten with brown sugar and keep hot in the oven for half a day. They will be brown, delicious and well flavored.

The many friends of Mrs. Bullis will be glad to know she is improving.

Miss Iva Van Vliet is recovering from an illness of typhoid fever.

Stanley Hasbrouck is ill with pneumonia.

Happiness and Hard Work

Happiness, I have discovered, is nearly always a rebound from hard work. It is one of the follies of men to imagine that they can enjoy mere thought, or emotion, or sentiment. As well try to eat beauty! For happiness must be tricked! She loves to see men at work. She loves sweat, weariness, self-sacrifice. She will be found, not in palaces, but lurking in cornfields and factories and hovering over littered desks. She crowns the unconscious head of the busy child. If you look up suddenly from hard work you will see her, but if you look too long she fades sorrowfully away.—From "Adventures in Contentment," by David Grayson.

Not Unlucky for All

The number thirteen hardly deserves its black reputation, which it has had ever since there were thirteen at the Last Supper at which Our Lord was betrayed. Hence the firm conviction that if this number sit down to table one of them will shortly afterwards die.

The fact of the matter is, as astrologists tell us, that thirteen is only unlucky to certain people. On others it has no more potent effect than any other number, while a few people declare that it always brings them good fortune.

What is all this noise about? No noise, no pain, the patient is quiet. ROYAL DIGESTO relieves indigestion. On sale at Connelly Drug Co., Ten Broeck's Drug Store, McBride's Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

City Treasurer's Office
Special Assessment.

Notice is hereby given that I have received the warrant for collection of the special assessment of 75 per cent of the expense incurred in the construction of a Sanitary Sewer in First Avenue, commencing at the center of Moore Street and running thence through the said First Avenue for a distance of 1,100 feet to a connection with the existing sewer in First Avenue.

The same has been left with me for collection at my office in the City Hall, in said City; that for thirty days from the date of this notice the said assessment may be paid without additional fees or charges, and that for the twenty succeeding days two per centum additional will be collected.

If any of the said special assessments shall remain unpaid at the time last mentioned, I shall give a written or printed notice to the person or persons against whom such assessment stands charged requiring them to pay such unpaid assessment to me at my office within thirty days thereafter, with five per centum fees thereon and one dollar for such notice as required by the City Charter.

Dated at the Treasurer's Office, City of Kingston, N. Y., November 10, 1924.

Join Red Cross, Governor Urges

The Red Cross membership drive which is now under way in Kingston and Ulster county is part of the annual nation-wide Red Cross roll call, and is meeting with the approval of all public officials and individuals who have come into contact with the work carried on by the organization throughout the world.

Governor Alfred E. Smith has taken cognizance of the Red Cross drive by issuing the following proclamation:

PROCLAMATION.
State of New York,
Executive Chamber.

Of all our American institutions probably no other has such a grip on our affections and sympathies as the American Red Cross.

Its symbol alone tells the story of its accomplishments and its aims. That cross signifies all that a trustful humanity in its sorrows and agonies is seeking. No word of mine or any other man could add to the lustre of that symbol. It shines and will shine perpetually in the minds and hearts of all mankind.

The time has come when the working organization behind the American Red Cross must make its appeal. This appeal will take the form of the annual roll call which will be made in the interval of November 11th to 27th.

Now, therefore, I, Alfred E. Smith, governor of the state of New York, do urge all the people of the state to enroll and contribute their efforts and support to this great human cause.

"Enroll in the Red Cross" should be the slogan.

Given under my hand and the Privy Seal of the State at the Capitol in the City of Albany this eighth day of [Seal] November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

(Signed) ALFRED E. SMITH.

By the Governor:
George B. Graves,
Secretary to the Governor.

Field's Tribute to Riley

Among the finest tributes which one man of genius has paid to another is that of Eugene Field to his friend and brother poet, James Whitcomb Riley. He put it in the language of an Indiana villager and the essence of it was this paragraph:

"Riley has got true genius; can't call it anything else. When he was born God give him the tongues of men and of angels, and threw in charity for good measure. There hain't no Shakespeare business about him, nor no Byron. Jim is a straightaway poet, and his pieces are as full of honey and dew as the flower the hummin' bird plays tag with in the cool sunlight of an early summer morning. You don't have to have anybody tell you what Jim means in them pieces; there hain't no need of footnotes and there hain't no disputed passages. It is all plain music from the word go, and that's the kind of music a feller's heart loves to dance to."

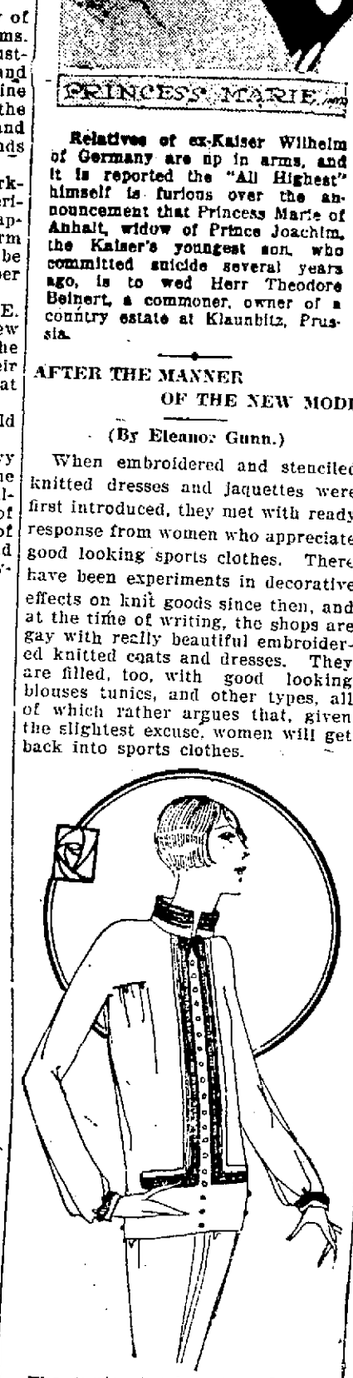
Widow of ex-Kaiser's Son to Wed Commoner

Relatives of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany are up in arms, and it is reported the "All Highest" himself is furious over the announcement that Princess Marie of Anhalt, widow of Prince Joachim, the Kaiser's youngest son, who committed suicide several years ago, is to wed Herr Theodore Beinert, a commoner, owner of a country estate at Klaunbitz, Prussia.

AFTER THE MANNER OF THE NEW MODE

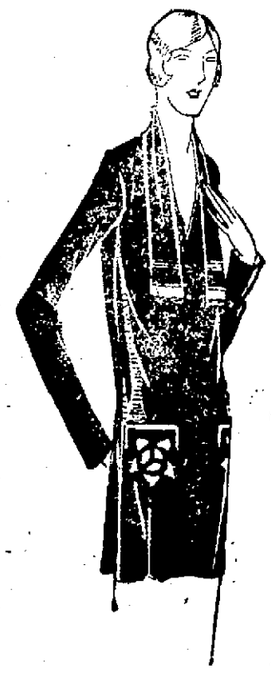
(By Eleanor Gunn.)

When embroidered and stenciled knitted dresses and jaquettes were first introduced, they met with ready response from women who appreciate good looking sports clothes. There have been experiments in decorative effects on knit goods since then, and at the time of writing, the shops are gay with really beautiful embroidered knitted coats and dresses. They are filled, too, with good looking blouses tunics, and other types, all of which rather argues that, given the slightest excuse, women will get back into sports clothes.



The tunic sketched is a London idea, and involves suede bindings and silk knitted fabric—the English call it stockingette, but this rather homey designation is ignored here.

Suede intrudes itself from many direcions—there are suede gloves and shoes, suede trimmings and still suede hats though not to the extent in America that one finds them abroad.



Designers are approaching anything resembling the bolero with caution. In the sketch, one gets the suggestion because of the placement of a rainbow braid applied to crepe. Dull gold buttons and a bit of fullness lifts this model into a worthwhile class. The aim and object of most tunics seems to be to suggest a certain elegance and formality, while there is something unassuming about the shorter version, just the thing to wear with a knit sports suit, or any other type, for that matter.

Walter P. Chrysler Announces

25 Miles to the Gallon

58 Miles per Hour

5 to 25 Miles in 8 Seconds

With a full sense of the seriousness of the statement—carefully weighing the meaning of every word—Chrysler-Maxwell engineers, without reservation, promise you, in this new Maxwell, performance surpassing in every essential any four-cylinder car in the world today.

To make that sweeping assurance more definite and specific—we promise you in speed, in power, in pliability of power, in swift response, and even more particularly in riding steadiness and comfort, results no four-cylinder car has yet been able to attain.

To go still further into details, the new Maxwell has speed capacities far beyond any car of its type and class, and in the rate [illegible] in which they may have to be used, will register them with an absence of vibration without precedent in four-cylinder construction.

Chrysler-Maxwell engineers have been actuated by the conviction that in addition to its inherent and natural economies, the four-cylinder principle possessed possibilities of power and speed capable of being translated into ease and steadiness which have never been fully developed.

They set out to overcome what have all too readily been accepted in the past as limitations in the four-cylinder engine and to convert these limitations into positive advantages.

No one can doubt that success has crowned their efforts, after even so short an experience as a half hour's driving demonstration of the car.

Judged by the unusual and extraordinary character of its performance, this Maxwell is literally a new and immeasurably better type of four-cylinder motor car.

SHIPWRECK SURVIVORS REACH NEW YORK.

The survivors of the steamship Zacapa, of the United Fruit Line, which went ashore on the island of Inaugua, off the east coast of Cuba, have been taken to New York by the rescue steamer Teno of the Chilean Steamship Company. The first two officers to the rescue were Manuel Maniebeus, first officer, and William Horsey, radio operator, of the Teno. Three of the fairest passengers saved were Maria, Victoria and Carmen Van Arcken, of Bogota, Colombia.

Development of Child Told by Wrist Bones

A horse's teeth tell his age; a child's wrist bones indicate his. By means of X-ray photographs one can tell how old a child is or, more important, whether he is properly developed for his years.

At one year of age a child has two bones in the wrist; at five he has six; at fourteen he has eight. Thus he has what scientists call an anatomical age.

Girls are usually in advance of boys in their anatomical development at any given age, says a high authority of the Iowa child welfare research station in Hygeia, health magazine published by the American Medical association.

As far as height and weight measurements are concerned, girls are approximately as heavy as boys for their respective heights, but are shorter and lighter at each age. They are more variable in growth than boys.

The authority, a physician, has drawn his conclusions from thousands of repeated physical measurements on nude children and his tables giving the average weight of boys and girls for each inch in height from every age from five to nineteen are said to be the most accurate tables for American-born children.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 15, 1924.

Mrs. Harding is an illustration of the vanity of human things. A little more than a year ago she was the First Lady of the Land, enjoying all that the term implies. Now she is not only a widow living in obscurity but is fighting for life itself. Sic transit gloria mundi.

The pneumonic plague in Los Angeles is said to be closely akin to the bubonic plague which was thought to be a revival of the "black death" of the Middle Ages. The relation of the disease to previous plagues, however, is less important than means for its extirpation.

It was fortunate that it was a French rather than an American city that found its drinking water accidentally impregnated with carbolic acid, the French through both circumstance and habit being so much more independent of drinking water.

FEW FOLKS CARE.

William Allen White, who ran on an independent Republican ticket for Governor of Kansas because, as he claimed, the regular Republican candidate was dominated by the Ku Klux Klan, was hopelessly defeated. In an interview Mr. White is thus quoted:

I am glad I gave these people who voted for me a chance to vote for some one not tainted with an indorsement by the Ku Klux Klan. Naturally, I never wanted to be Governor or I should have gone about getting it in the regular way. But with all my heart I desired to protest against the un-American influence of the Ku Klux Klan in politics, and I am proud that I could serve those who felt as I feel. As to the immediate result, it is unimportant. The seed is sown. This fight must be fought out. It will come up next year in the struggle for nomination. Then we shall finish what we started. The Republican party must not be mortgaged to the Ku Klux Klan. The war on that crowd has only begun.

Observers who look facts in the face will perhaps be in no hurry to share the famous Kansas editor's hopeful expectations, for the general election returns as well as the Kansas returns show that candidates who openly opposed the Klan suffered heavily at the ballot box, while candidates who cautiously refrained from offending that organization by any public utterance prospered greatly. Apparently the majority of the people care no more about "the Klan menace" than about the exposures at Washington usually characterized during the campaign as "Republican corruption."

PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

There is persistent war upon private schools through both Federal and State agencies, and the final outcome can not yet be foretold. A law abolishing private schools was recently passed in Oregon, but was declared unconstitutional by the Federal Circuit Court. At present there is agitation against private schools in several States, in most cases the movement claiming to be patriotic and in some having the vigorous support of the Ku Klux Klan. In Michigan an anti-private school amendment to the constitution is to be voted on, but its defeat is said to be expected. The movement is in part an attack on the Catholic Church, although other churches conduct private schools and there are private schools which are altogether secular in character. In so far as the movement is aimed at any church, or at religious instruction in schools, it is manifestly opposed to the American principle of religious liberty. The forbidding of private schools in Soviet Russia is avowedly with a view to prevent religious instruction and thus is an attack on religion itself.

In this country the movement boasts of "pure Americanism" as its aim and proposes to force the same methods of education upon all, but obviously the purest Americanism can be developed only in freedom. In the United States, of all countries, one would naturally expect complete freedom in the establishment and maintenance of religious schools and secular private schools, provided the instruction in them measures up to accepted standards in the matter of scientific thoroughness. There is ample room for the claim, moreover, that in small private schools individual needs can be more nearly met than in the public schools where the children are part of a vast educational machine.

That Body of Yours

WHY NEW CULTS SOMETIMES SCORE.

Someone has asked the question why have so many forms of healing sprung up in the last few years?

Is it because the "regular" physician has not kept pace with medical knowledge?

No! The regular medical man today knows vastly more than his predecessors. The wiping out of the Plague, Yellow Fever, Malaria, and the control of Typhoid, Diabetes, Tuberculosis and so forth, more than answers that question.

But the physician of today in his pursuit of the cause of an illness, is unrelenting in his endeavor to locate this cause. The patient is simply the "host," or individual who happens to have the illness.

And so when he treats the illness he frequently forgets, or does not take into consideration, the patient himself.

Now this doesn't suit the average patient, because he or she wants to talk about the illness, more than the physician cares to listen, and unless the physician has an unusually big reputation, the patient is dissatisfied.

This of course is not the case always, because one of the most outstanding physicians in America, bases his success upon his knowledge of human nature, and not upon it knowledge of medicine.

Now what is my point?

That many of the practitioners of the new "systems" or "cults" have cultivated the art of salesmanship, they have acquired a good working knowledge of human nature.

Now is this wrong?

Not by any means in many cases, because one of their assets is the feeling of optimism they impart to the patient, which goes a long way in the treatment of "nervous" or "chronic" cases.

Further, by seeing the patient frequently the patient feels that he is getting more attention, whereas the regular physician, hesitates to make what he terms "unnecessary" calls.

The danger of course with the "irregular" or "new cult" physician, is that often he has not had sufficient training, to permit him to handle that precious thing the human body.

But this study of the patient, his inclinations and disposition, might be of help to the regular physician in getting quicker results.

New Methods for Auto Offenders

Above-Board Methods Proving More Popular Than Espionage System—Uniformed Traffic Police Better Protection to Both Public and Police.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Complete abandonment of the use of plain clothes officers in the work of bringing automobile speeders to justice within the next year is predicted by the American Automobile Association in a special dispatch sent to all affiliated motor clubs throughout the country from its national headquarters in this city.

The prediction is based upon an exhaustive investigation of the police methods of the principal cities with regard to the arrest of speeders and motor law violators, and has been advanced at this time owing to widespread criticism of the action of the police commissioner of this city in experimenting with ununiformed officers in its campaign against lawlessness.

According to the three A's statement to motor clubs the Washington plan is but a flare in the pan, the leading police chiefs of the country favoring the abolition of plain clothes officers as essential to the success of motor law enforcement.

Of the 61 police chiefs consulted, the dispatch shows only 3 reported the use of ununiformed officers in the work of catching speeders and 5 reported a dual system whereby traffic officers were both in uniforms and plain clothes.

Of the 53 cities now using uniformed police exclusively for traffic law enforcement, 23 had at one time tried plain clothes men and abandoned the system.

Commenting upon the facts, Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., says that the trend of enforcement being toward uniformity, as with all automotive legislation, the secret method of arrest cannot expect to gain favor and must be discarded.

"Just another instance of the law of the survival of the fittest," Mr. Henry explains.

The investigation revealed the fact that of 54 affiliated A. A. A. clubs that were questioned on the matter of above-board methods vs. the espionage system, only one club favored the latter. It is pointed out that, through their organizations, motorists are now in a position to oppose vigorously and successfully any plans for the return to methods that have been abandoned as a menace.

Details of the nation's attitude on the subject have been brought to the attention of the Washington public, both through the press and the medium of motor club membership, and it is believed that the weight of opinion is so overwhelmingly against the espionage system as to discourage its use here at an early date.

The A. A. A. has summarized the reasons for abandonment of the espionage system, as advanced by the leading police chiefs, as follows:

It has never been necessary to put out plain clothes men to catch speeders. Detective methods are necessary only for violations which are not done in public.

Uniforms are a protection to the motoring public as well as to the police force.

The uniform has a very deterrent effect upon would-be violators.

It is more important to discourage a motor violation than to make an arrest after something has happened.

Good policing consists in maintaining order without arrests.

Espionage presupposes the motorist a criminal.

It also encourages fatalities through obvious confusing of police with highwaymen and grafting constables.

"The A. A. A." says Mr. Henry in conclusion, "believes that the few cities now using the spy system will have to abandon it presently, not merely because it has been found to be inadequate and illogical by the many other cities that have tried it, but mainly because the time is not far distant when no city will be able to enforce any plan that is out of key with the motor regulations of the country in general.

"The increased volume of touring is demanding a certain degree of uniformity which precludes the possibility of extreme ideas in laws and enforcement. The tourist is carrying the best ideas of the country with him, and he is becoming a factor to be reckoned with. The local motorist learns through the tourist what is being done in other leading cities, and as a direct consequence he comes to have a new picture of how things ought to be done in his own city.

"Our investigation of enforcement policies shows not only that there is no favor for the spy system but that in the standardized system for national use there will be in evidence a broadminded attitude toward our greatest motor problem. Complete abandonment of the use of plain clothes officers has become a motor necessity, and it is clear that those who are blocking it are themselves violating a far more serious law than an arbitrary speed limit."

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

MARY BEALE

An English portrait painter, was born in Suffolk in 1632, and died in 1697. She was the daughter of the Rev. Mr. Cradock, minister of Walton-upon-Thames, and was instructed in her art by Sir Peter Lily (Lely), whose works and those of Van Dyck she studied with the greatest care. Her style was formed on the best models of the Italian school, and her coloring was clear, strong and natural.

Besides her painting, she also paraphased some of the Psalms of David.

WIRELESS.

The first wireless message sent from a ship at sea, was dispatched from the American liner St. Paul to the Needles, twenty five years ago today, November 15, 1899. The vessel was then sixty-six miles from the land station. The wireless was used in saving lives early in 1909, when Jack Binns sent out his memorable call for help from the stricken White Star Liner Republic, after her collision with the Florida, off Nantucket. Later in the same year help summoned by wireless resulted in the rescue of 150 people from the steamer Ohio off the coast of Alaska. After that hardly a month passed without the wireless demonstrating its utility by the saving of human lives.

The tragedy of the Titanic, and the burning of the ill-fated Volturno also afford examples of the beneficence of Signor Marconi's great invention.

MATCHES.

The first friction matches were the invention of M. Dercane, a Frenchman, in 1816. They were little used outside of France until 1827, when John Walker, an English druggist, manufactured the first really practical friction matches, which were known as "Congreves."

Within a few years their use spread over Europe and America, supplating the flint and steel with tinder box and sulphur-tipped splints of wood, called spunks, which were the common means of obtaining fire until Walker's invention was popularized.

The next great advance in matches was made in 1845, when Professor von Schrotter, of Vienna, discovered red, or amorphous phosphorus, which greatly reduced the terrible jaw disease called "phossy jaw" which prevailed among workers in match factories. Safety matches were invented by Lundstrom, a Swedish scientist, in 1855.

The next great step in the perfection of match-making was made by two Frenchmen, Henri Sevene and Emile D. Cahan who secured an American patent for "an improvement in match compositions" twenty-six years ago today November 15, 1898. By this new process, the dangers of necrosis of the teeth and jawbone among match factory toilers were ended, it is now in general use in all modern match factories.

"Bed Time Story" Teller Tells How

Thornton W. Burgess, Originator of "Bed Time Story," Describes How He Happened to Do It—Gives Examples to Delighted Audiences.

Thornton W. Burgess the "Bed Time Story" man, was in Kingston Friday, having been brought to Kingston by the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 7. Nice as it is to hear a bed-time story every night or so over the radio or otherwise, it is much nicer, in the opinion of his audience, to have the man who makes the stories tell one and show pictures about all the little animal and bird friends one knows.

In the afternoon the high school auditorium was filled with the younger pupils from city schools, whose enthusiasm knew no bounds; whether Mr. Burgess told stories, or showed pictures and told pictures, or told interesting things about their little animal and bird friends, the children just went almost wild with delight.

In the evening there was an excellent-sized audience of older pupils and grown-up boys and girls who had just as good a time as did the littler folks in the afternoon. Superintendent Michael introduced Mr. Burgess in the evening as the well-known author and lecturer.

Mr. Burgess told how he first wrote a bed-time story and then a series of such stories for his own boy, "Old Mother West-Wind," and how later a publisher hearing the story secured him to write a series of sixteen such stories. Now he has written between 4,000 and 5,000 Bed-Time Stories.

These stories have made possible considerable education of the listening children, both as to their animal and bird friends and many a lesson of life taught through them. It was a recognized fact of child psychology that no normal child could endure to have these little animal-folks their equal, much less their superior. So anything done by Peter Rabbit, Happy Jack Squirrel, Timmy Flying-Squirrel, and others could certainly be done by any boy or girl friend of theirs. The stories also appeal to the child's imagination which is one of his or her most valuable assets, to be guided and controlled but never lessened. All of the stories told by Mr. Burgess present what is absolutely true as to the habits and ways of the animals described. And they appeal to the child's sense of humor. Most of the stories center around some particular fact.

Mr. Burgess called attention to the lessening in numbers of our feathered and animal friends and to the need of human protection for them. While it would be well-nigh impossible to keep a normal boy from trapping—if he be a farm boy, or at least throwing stones at such animals as the muskrat and the mink, it was quite another matter for any boy to do harm to Jimmy Muskrat or Bill Mink; his sense of justice wouldn't allow it.

After delighting all present by telling the story of "Buster Bear's Sugar Party"—with all the facts true to nature—Mr. Burgess showed about eighty most interesting lantern slides of birds and animals, giving some fact of peculiar interest in connection with each picture, and long before anyone though of such a thing, it actually was "bed-time," and Mr. Burgess and his audience actually said "Good Night" to each other.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Nov. 14.—On the evening of November 12th, the Woodstock Woman's Club of Woodstock, gave its annual parlor meeting in Firemen's Hall. Between sixty and seventy-five people were present. Alice Cashdollar, Mrs. Norman Elwyn and Mrs. George Riseley were on the entertainment committee.

After the regular business meeting, which showed the society to be in a most flourishing condition financially, as well as in membership, there was a fine program rendered. Addresses were given by the Rev. Dr Oberhauser of the Lutheran Church, the Rev. McCormick, a visiting pastor of Lexington, N. Y., and the Rev. Dr. Quinn of the Methodist Church. The predominating thought in all of these addresses seemed to be the relation of the churches throughout the town to social and philanthropic service, which has been the chief aim of the Woman's Club since it was originally founded. Much credit, it was observed, was due to the members and officers of the club and to the president, Mrs. Larry Elwyn. Two groups of songs were rendered by Jack Roblon, who recently accepted a position in New York city as a professional singer. Mr. Roblon proved himself in excellent voice and rendered as his first number the popular song hit "Colorado" followed by a number of Scotch songs. As the second group he gave "Pale Hands" from the "Indian Love Lyrics" and as an encore number Harry Lauder's famous song success "Roaming in the Gloaming." As a second attraction of the program Mr. and Mrs. Quinn sang "Juanita" and after enthusiastic applause, Kate Venna's immortal song "Absence." Both of these numbers were beautifully rendered and were very well received. Features among the games for the young folks were the lost ring game, the banana feeding game, and the dressing contest. Also the clothespin game kept the assemblage in a roar of laughter until a late hour. Mrs. Bruce Herrick was chairman of the food committee and was capably assisted by Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. George Riseley and Laura Johnson. A sumptuous repast was served at about eleven o'clock. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Watson Riseley, Mr. and Mrs. John Carnright and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Groo, Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mosher, Mr. and Mrs. Brue Herrick, Mrs. O. S. Elwyn and daughters, Mr. Ball, Mrs. Peter Longendyke, Mrs. Fred Elwyn, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lasher and many others.

Marriages at Sea

A marriage performed by the captain of a vessel at sea is recognized as legal, though this recognition is based upon custom and not any specific legal enactment. The captain does not issue a license, but does issue a marriage certificate. Such a marriage could be proved by means of the "log" of the vessel (the ship's journal) on which such a marriage should be recorded.

Are You One of the Fellows Who Live on "Some Day" Street?

Two friends met the other day for the first time in years. One said: "Since I started planting a little money in a savings account with the ULSTER COUNTY SAVINGS INSTITUTION every week I really feel that I am a different man —more independent. It is surprising how your savings grow when once you get the habit of saving."

The other fellow said: "I guess that's so. My last week's salary is almost gone now. But some day I'll start a savings account."

Adjust Diet to Your Exercise

Thus Prevent Getting Fat You Run Less Chance of Developing Diabetes, Advises State Commissioner of Health in Radio Talk.

In this week's radio talk broadcasted from station WGY, Schenectady, Dr Matthias Nicoll, Jr, state commissioner of health, stated that the death rate from diabetes had increased over fifty per cent in the past twenty years. He said further that by correct living many cases can be prevented and that by early discovery of established cases, permanent cure may sometimes result

"Through the efforts of health departments and because of better housing, increased wages, and better living conditions generally" said Dr Nicoll, 'the general death rate has decreased enormously in the last quarter of a century This result is due especially to the fact that relatively few babies under one year of age die as compared with former years when the mortality rate of this group was terrific In addition, communicable diseases are no longer such important causes of death as they were a few years ago

'In spite of this reduction in the general mortality rate, there is one disease from which fatalities are continually increasing—diabetes During the last twenty years in the United States the death rate from this disease has increased fifty-two per cent and among the Jewish people there are about as many deaths from diabetes as from tuberculosis

'Recent medical discoveries which permit more intelligent and more successful treatment of diabetes have created an interest in the disease which previously did not exist It is not my purpose this evening however, to discuss the medical treatment of established cases of diabetes, that I shall leave to your own doctor The point which every one should know is that by intelligent living, many cases of diabetes can be prevented

'Diabetes is ten times as common among people who are over weight as among those who are underweight Furthermore, after the age of fifty this ratio is doubled If you are thin at that age, your chances of developing diabetes are but one-twentieth as great as they are if you are fat

"Some people with diabetes become aware of the fact because of certain symptoms such as loss of weight lack of strength, headache, or skin eruptions No one symptom, however can be set down as absolute evidence of diabetes although some diabetics do suffer with an almost unquenchable thirst and drink enormous quantities of water. Probably most cases of diabetes are discovered accidentally when an individual is examined for life insurance and chemical tests show an excessive amount of sugar secretion Others are discovered in a similar manner when a person consults his doctor for perhaps some trivial complaint

'It has been said previously that the treatment of diabetes has been enormously improved in recent years If the disease has been established any great length of time, however, the treatment cannot cure, it can only relieve the symptoms and must be continued indefinitely, otherwise the symptoms return However if diabetes is discovered sufficiently early, some physicians claim that by proper treatment immediately the disease may be permanently cured

"With these facts in mind, the sensible course of procedure must be apparent to everyone First—don't let yourself get fat, and you will run less chance of developing diabetes This can be done by proper adjustment of your diet to the amount of exercise you take Fat cannot accumulate unless you take in more than you burn up Second—go to your doctor every year for a physical examination or at least have certain chemical tests made once a year so that if diabetes does develop you may be placed under immediate supervision and treatment'

Y. M C A AUXILIARY PAYS TRIBUTE TO MRS. WEEKS

The November meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M C A. was held on Friday afternoon at the Y M. C. A. parlors. In the absence of the president, the vice-president Mrs. Allen, presided. The routine business was followed by very encouraging reports, espteially that of the lunch room committee which has turned in $100 during the last month. The speaker for the afternoon was the Rev Lucas Boere who told interestingly the history of the old First Reformed Dutch Church

A very impressive feature of the afternoon was the tribute paid by the auxiliary to the memory of the late Mrs. Henry Weeks, who served as its president for thirteen years, including the campaign for raising funds for the present building.

HAILS PASSING OF MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN

Writer Eulogizes Present Age of Youthfulness

Gray hairs are gone, old age is out of date, and a sign of the times is the disappearance of the middle-aged woman.

This is as it should be. So long as a mature woman does not ape a flapper, why should she not keep her youthful looks into the forties—or the seventies? Why should a dowager assume that it is her duty to be dowdy?

A black gown and a white heart are not inseparable, and dull gray and goodness do not always go together. If a woman is "all glorious within" it is well that her looks should make this manifest.

Nowadays our social world seems to be divided into girls, young married women and women who are great-grandmothers. No more do you see the middle-aged matron, with her proud grace and reserved bearing; or the handsome mother of forty, with her flow of talk and flock of dull daughters. And we never come across the sweet-faced sad-eyed single woman—the typical maiden aunt of the Victorian era.

Sad to say, the ideal old lady has gone forever, with her silver hair, white cap, black gown and gentle, dignified manners. Old ladies, such as those depicted in Whistler's famous portrait of his mother, or in Manet's picture of Mme. Manet mere, have ceased to exist in our social life of today.

Everything in life—art, dress, rules of health and beauty culture—tends toward the exit of the middle-aged woman. And she is out of it on the stage and in fiction. Balzac's "Femme de Trente Ans" seems a back number, as many heroines in up-to-date novels are well on in the forties and fifties. And the same note is sounded in the plays of the period.

Most of us live up to this august example. Women of sixty or seventy yacht, hunt, shoot, dance, play golf and hockey and drive their own motor cars. One peeress, who was married in the sixties, drives her car with success, and another of the same age leads cotillions, although she is the proud owner of several grandchildren.

Much can be said on the side of perennial youthfulness. The desire to prolong one's youth shows vital force and is said to be a sure proof of national well-being. Every woman for her own sake would fain keep fresh and young, as she is well aware that so long as her looks remain she can rule men, and there will be no "Finis" written on the page of her book of life.—The Hon. Mrs. Fitzroy Stewart in the London Mail.

Birthplace of Liberty

The so-called "Tennis Court Oath," derived its name from the tennis courts at Versailles, where members of the national assembly of France in 1789 met and took the solemn oath that they would continue to meet for the dispatch of business wherever circumstances might require until the constitution of the kingdom had been established upon sound and solid foundation. They met on the tennis courts because admission to the hall of the "Menus Plaisirs" had been denied them by Louis XVI.

Great Speed of Air Craft

When speed records established by airmen are recorded, only those who are in the game can really understand what real speed means. Trains or autos travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour give a thrill, but what are these compared with "air" thrills. A very good illustration was given by an aviator who took part in one of the contests, acting as mechanic on an airplane which was moving at nearly two miles a minute. "We seemed to have the whole sky to ourselves one minute," he sai , "and then behind us appeared one of the giants. She overhauled us as if we were standing still, and was far in front almost before we realized we were not alone." Curiously enough even the airmen themselves find it difficult to estimate at what rate they are tearing over the earth.

Warning Might Save

The road to success should be posted with this little thought for the fellow who can't stand prosperity: "Danger! Sharp Curve Ahead!"

FORGERS DIDN'T FLOURISH WHEN COWS WERE CASH

ANCIENT Rome knew neither forger nor counterfeiter. When the village tailor set a price of two cows, two sheep and one spring lamb for the new spring sport suit of inlaid armor, there was no chance to get by with a bad check. The tailor didn't know anything about checks. There was nothing to do but drive in your three honest to goodness cows and take your change in sheep, or lambs, or any other small animals the tailor might have in the till.

Money, says the dictionary, is "any material that by agreement serves as a common medium of exchange and measure of value in trade." And in ages gone by, mankind has agreed upon a variety of currencies that could never be adapted to present day commerce. But most of the ancient mediums of exchange possessed at least one distinct virtue—they offered no employment for the forger, the check raiser or the counterfeiter.

Cave Man's Currency

In earth's early dawn our cave man ancestor traded his surplus of animal skins for a new stone hatchet. A few centuries later he traded those skins for bear claw necklaces and shell anklets with which to bedeck his mate. And so greatly prized did these primitive adornments become that they in turn assumed the importance and dignity of currency.

It was the advent of metals that first suggested to mankind the possibility of a medium of exchange that could be easily transported and would not possess the perishable qualities attaching to hides, oxen, grain and olive oil.

China, as might be expected, was one of the very first of the early civilizations to develop the use of metals as currency, using both copper and iron. Rome, which first used copper as a basis of its coinage, adopted silver in 269 as a result of the example of Greece.

In medieval European currencies, silver was the principal standard, but gold gradually assumed the ascendency, and today it is pre-eminent throughout civilization.

Early American Exchange

America has seen every stage of the development of exchange. Although the earliest settlers had long known coin in their native lands, in the new world commodities were practically the only cash. They exchanged bright beads, knives, hatchets and iron pots for the grain, tobacco and furs of the Indians. A little later, in trade among themselves and with the mother country, they adopted leaf tobacco as a standard of value.

One of the interesting historical documents of the Colonial period is an enactment of the Virginia Assembly, authorising the purchase of the original site of the city of Norfolk for "ten thousand pounds of good, merchantable tobacco and casks."

Cows and hides and grain and tobacco were honest coin. They represented human toil. They might be the subject of theft, but their value in exchange was never rendered unstable by forgery or counterfeit.

Evolution of Forger

The evolution of the forger and check raiser of today goes back only to the early days of the coining of precious metals. The early gold coins, when they were started on their long journey through commerce, conformed to a certain standard of weight. In passing through many hands, however, they became worn to a greater or less degree, still holding their original value. Those early coins had no milled edge, so the "coin-clipper" came into being. This early parasite made a practice of cutting off or wearing away a portion of the coin around the edges, and returning the reduced coin to circulation. Honest intellects which in a later day probably would have interested themselves in check protecting devices, defeated the "clipper" by developing the milled edge. Whereupon the "clipper" immediately became a "sweater"—the process of "sweating" consisting of shaking a lot of coins in a bag until they were considerably worn down, the crook getting for his pains a quantity of metal dust.

A new type of check, adopted by Sing Sing Prison, on which the word "Void" appears when ink eradicating chemicals are applied. Above—The warrior of olden times paid for his new spring suit with cattle.

The Coin "Plugger's" Game

It was the same school of crooks, in all probability, who developed the technique of punching holes in coins, plugging the space with a cheaper metal and hammering over the surfaces so that the substitution would not to be discovered. Instances have also been known of gold coins sawed in two, the gold dug out of the inside and the cavity filled with lead.

Commercial paper made valuable by the signatures of individuals, banks or firms ushered in the millennium of the commercial crook, however. It was about 1695 that the Bank of England first issued a crude bank note in denominations of not less than five pounds. This pioneer institution was not long in lowering the amounts to one and two pounds, to the extreme delight of a large class of both amateur and professional crooks, and forgery grew apace. By 1760 the crime of forgery was rampant throughout England, and historians have recorded that by the end of the eighteenth century as many as 353 persons were convicted in a year of raising and forging Bank of England notes. The prisons were literally filled to overflowing with others awaiting trial for their share in this ridiculously easy fraud.

Drastic Forgery Penalties

The temptation for the forger was gradually lessened by the adoption of more intricate engraved designs in bank notes. But the commercial crook did not cease operations. He found it comparatively easy to take a one-pound note and increase the figures to several times that amount. This offense had become so serious in England by 1773 that some most drastic legislation was enacted, making the tampering with bank notes an offense punishable by death "without benefit of clergy."

Intricate designs, silk thread paper and other protective measures have gradually reduced the altering and counterfeiting of bank notes and paper [illegible] low ratio, but there are still clever crooks who from time to time manage to peel a figure from a $5 bill, and place it over the figure "1" on a dollar note.

Enter the Draft

Money really began to have flexibility just before the beginning of the nineteenth century, when the bank "draft" was introduced into trade. But this introduction was also an open invitation to the forger and the "scratcher," as the expert penman who altered original drafts came to be known. From the year 1800, the word "cheque" became synonymous with "draft" as referring to a written order on a banker, and ultimately acquired its present meaning. But the cheque ushered in the golden age of the forger and he was quick to reap his rich harvest.

Truly, money had attained the long desired flexibility, but this flexibility brought with it a new menace that threatened for a time to destroy the usefulness of this new-found commercial wonder. Just as the developers of the milled edge checkmated the "clipper," so ingenious inventors set themselves to find a way out of a condition that became so serious that banks were losing an enormous revenue through fear of general distribution of drafts.

A hogshead of tobacco was the standard of value with the early American colonists.

Protective Devices Invented

Protective devices which punched the amount of the instrument out of the paper were employed. Tinted "safety" paper was developed. "Letters of advice," in which banks advised their correspondents daily of all drafts issued against the correspondent were employed. But the master crook kept right at it. He found that he could fill the punch holes and raise the amount easily. With chemicals he washed off the tint on the safety paper whenever desired, raised the amount of the check or draft, and restored the tint. He developed easy methods of defeating the "letter of advice."

The decline of "draft-raising" dates from about 1899, when protective devices were introduced which stamped the amount on the check unalterably, not only by breaking the fiber of the paper, but by forcing into the paper in indelible ink the sum for which the instrument was drawn. Banks then resumed their practice of selling drafts freely, and the commercial world drew a long sigh of relief.

Not yet has the forger and check raiser gone out of business, however. The "scratcher" still pies his trade, and becomes more expert with each passing year. Ink eradicating chemicals are readily purchased at any stationery store. Checks containing genuine signatures, the raw material of the "scratcher," are easily obtainable through robbery of business, residence and apartment mail boxes, and many other methods.

The American Institute of Accountants recently stressed the grave danger of forgery in a report which gave the number of checks used annually in the United States as six billion. The report further stated that ninety-five per cent of the business of this country is transacted by means of instruments made valuable by the signatures of individuals or firms.

A debt was indeed a heavy obligation when the Colonial business man paid his creditors in coin.

Check Protection Essential

Commenting upon the loss of $100,000,0000 annually by American business through forgeries and embezzlements, the report expressed the obligation of the business man to protect himself against such losses in the following language:

"A large measure of protection can be secured against the alteration of checks and bills by giving attention to the style and form of the instruments. The use of safety paper and the various devices that safeguard against alterations is inexpensive and necessary. The individual or business house that fails to use these safeguards is likely, in the event of losses, to fail to establish the fact that ordinary precautions have been taken against alteration—often important when a bank overpays a check by reason of fraudulent alteration."

The crime of forgery can be prevented today. The personal currency, created by the writer of a check can be as carefully safeguarded as a United States Treasury note. Mechanical devices for shredding the amount of the instrument in words in two colors have been developed to a high degree. Safety paper has also been developed to an extent undreamed a few years ago. Forgery insurance affords still further safeguard. Business concerns all over the world are taking cognizance of the toll exacted by the forger, and are combining the devices at their disposal for combatting commercial fraud. But the forger will continue to flourish until every check issued is surrounded with safeguards the forger cannot combat.

Prison Protects Checks

An interesting instance of the development of check protection is furnished by the check that has been adopted by Sing Sing Prison, at Ossining, N. Y. Sing Sing knows the forger and his ways. Within those grim walls many pen artists are "doing a stretch" for tampering with personal currency. So Sing Sing, in addition to the use of mechanical devices for impressing the amount indelibly into the paper, is using a safety paper which does queer things when ink eradicator is applied.

The modern business man creates currency at his desk by signing checks.

Chemicals remove the surface tint. But in its place, through chemical reaction, there appears in thickly clustered repetition, the word "VOID," to confound and defeat the forger.

It's a far cry from the day when cows were currency. And the old adage of "set a thief to catch a thief" has gone into the discard. It is the honest man, the chemist, the inventor and the scientist who are protecting the currency of today.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 15.—Stocks were pressed for sale in the early trading today in the second wave of profit taking which has passed over the market this week and prices of many of the active industrial and railroad stocks showed signs of wavering. The selling was mostly in the stocks which have been pushing forward quite briskly in the last few days, the oils, coppers and industrials suffering slight losses.

At the same time and as the result of "switching" from one group of stocks to others, new forward movements were going on in the sugar stocks, the shipping and textile stocks and in some of the motors. Marine Preferred and American International Corporation carried their rallies a little higher; Great Western Sugar gained 2 points to 92¼; American Woolen climbed a point; Atchison added a point at 112 and New York Central was in demand around the new high level established this week.

Vastly improved sentiment in business and better buying of all commodities was reported by Duns and Bradstreet's' agencies in their week end reviews. Commodity prices were steady; gasoline was marked up one cent a gallon in local territory. Continuation of a large buying demand made conditions favorable for profit taking for traders who purchased at considerably lower prices.

A decline of five points in Cast Iron Pipe and heaviness in American Can and other high priced industrials was attributed to reports that the shorts had made satisfactory settlements and that danger of a "squeeze" had been thus eliminated for the time being. American Water Works was an exception, moving up four points to 119.

Sinclair and Marland Oil stocks declined under heavy selling and the oil stocks as a group showed more irregularity than at any other time this week. Marland's third quarterly statement showed the effects of the heavy decline in inventories since June. After charging out $3,376,864 for inventory depreciation the company reported a deficit of $2,428,685 in the three months ended September 30. Sinclair was sold as the result of re-entry of the company into the bond market as a borrower.

Outside markets were fairly steady with cotton prices practically unchanged and grain fractionally lower. Liberty Bonds were again reactionary, industrial and railroad bonds steady.

Mack Trucks sharp advance to a new high at 109¼, a new gain of nearly 4 points and General Asphalt's rise of 2 points to a new high at 50⅞ were the features of the closing period. Oil stocks made a slight recovery. Savage Arms continued its advance to 83 and oil stocks made a fair recovery. Bonds were steady, with good demand for foreign government and domestic industrial and railroad issues.

College Course Proved Much Too Successful

The Man and the Girl loved one another very dearly. But, alas! though rich in love and good looks, they were poor in the currency demanded by the butcher, the baker and the candlesticks combine.

So the man said. "Beloved, I love you too much to ask you to share a life of penury. I will away to a distant colony, where I will work hard and acquire much wealth. Then I will return and we will be married and live happy ever after."

So the Man departed.

Now, the Girl was a practical nature, and she said to herself: "I, too, will endeavor to make some money."

So she considered what money-making pursuit she might follow, and she determined to start a correspondence college for women.

She advertised largely in the press, assuring her sisters that she could teach them "How to be Beautiful," "The Art of Fascinating Men," "How to Win and Keep a Husband," and many other subtleties.

And before long she realized that she was a success, and that her wealth was very considerable.

Accordingly she wrote to her Man: "Come home. I have more than enough for both of us."

But he came not. For among the pupils of the correspondence college had been one living in that distant colony whither he had gone. She had found the courses of very great merit—for she had learned how to be beautiful, she had fascinated the Girl's man, she had won him, and there is no reason to suppose that she had not also learned how to keep him.—London Passing Show.

Italy's Chemical Industry

More than 100,000 workers are now employed in the chemical industry of Italy. In 1914 it had 50,000 workers. Capital invested has risen during the same period from $40,000,000 to $85,000,000. Advices to the American Chemical society indicate that Italy, like the United States, marched forward on its own initiative when its dyestuff supply from Germany was curtailed by the World war. Ten years ago the Italian chemical industry produced no artificial dye-stuffs or coal tar dyes. Last year it produced 2,400,000 kilograms of sulphur black, 1,000,000 kilograms of azo dyes and more than 100,000 kilograms of various basic and acid dyes. About sixtenths of the national requirement of coal tar products is now produced in Italy, which also exports some of the leading intermediates.

UP-STATE GIRL TRIES SUICIDE IN ROOMING HOUSE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 15.—Jilted by her sweetheart and discouraged and starving after an unsuccessful search for work, a girl of nineteen, believed by police to be Miss Mildred Odell "from somewhere up-state" tried to end her life today with gas in a rooming house here.

She refused to tell police exactly where her "up-state home" was.

23 MISSING, 22 INJURED AFTER BOILER EXPLOSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Helsingfors, Nov. 15.—Twenty-five workmen were missing and believed drowned and twenty-two were injured today when a steamer carrying sixty workers sank in the harbor after a boiler explosion.

New Disease Announced

A new disease has been discovered by Dr. Marshall Clinton, of the University of Buffalo. The symptoms are sharp shooting pains in the side. Prior to his discovery, he declares, many physicians mistook it for appendicitis, gall bladder infection, kidney trouble or some other serious ailment. Many women have been operated on for appendicitis, when housewife's rib was all that was the matter with them, Doctor Clinton says. The ailment is common and occurs most frequently among housewives. Persons who are shortwaisted are especially subject to it. The cure for costolgia consists of an operation to remove the tip of the floating rib.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Chrysler and Maxwell Models

The Stuyvesant has on display in its showrooms the new models of the Maxwell and Chrysler cars. Many changes have been wrought in the new Maxwell, which will be introduced throughout the country the coming week. The motor power has increased 25 per cent; a new gemmer driving gear and balloon tires is now regular equipment; wooden wheels of a natural finish have replaced the disc wheels, which is a big addition to the beauty of the car; the radiator hood is wider with a new style head lamp and cowl lights to match. a cowl ventilator is provided in the dash The car is finished in dark blue Duco finish

A Chrysler Imperial is also shown fitted with the new VV ventilating windshield, body by Fisher A Royal Coupe, a new addition to the line is attracting much attention

The show rooms are very prettily decorated and are commanding the attention of large crowds.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS.

The Robert W. Chambers novel, "Between Friends," is the attraction at Keeney's again tonight. Many claim it far better than the "Common Law." The gowns worn by the women in the cast are wonderful. The all star cast includes Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson. The short subjects are the Keeney News, Topics of the Day and a lively comedy, "Uncle Sam." Three days, starting Monday, is Gloria Swanson's latest success, "Wages of Virtue," a thrilling romance of the French Foreign Legion.

Vaudeville at the Kingston Opera House tonight with five acts on the bill, also the photoplay, "Virtuous Liars," featuring David Powell and Edith Allen. An all new vaudeville program will be shown Monday, also Constance Talmadge in her peppiest picture, "The Dangerous Maid."

At the Auditorium tonight United artists present Mary Pickford in a flashing romance of Old Seville "Rosita," the thrilling, amazing, fascinating story of a beautiful little street singer of Seville, who sang slanderous songs about her king, which only tended to make the king love her the more, and determined to win her at whatever the cost.

Tonight will end the last half of anniversary week at the Orpheum Theater. This concludes one of the best programs ever offered here. For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the management announces another big show, Normal Talmadge in "Secrets," the picture and five big vaudeville acts. "Secrets" is Norma Talmadge's greatest picture. In this Joseph M. Schenck production Norma plays four roles, that of a girl, a young mother, a middle-aged matron and an aged woman.

Nickel Bus Lines For Fulton, N. Y.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, Nov. 15.—Fulton will have nickel bus lines.

The long bitter legal fight of James W. Dillon, No. 3306 Midland avenue, Syracuse passenger bus operator, to establish a five cent fare bus line in the city of Fulton ended today with the granting of a certificate of convenience and necessity by the public service commission.

Backed by Mayor John W. Stevenson and the common council of Fulton, Dillon was thwarted in his attempts to establish the bus line in that city by officials of the Empire State Railways, who obtained a temporary injunction against him after several new busses had been purchased and placed in service.

STEPPING AHEAD OF THE BANK CROOK

Bankers Association Official Gives Rules to Foil Criminals and Avoid Loss.

By JAMES E. BAUM,
Manager Protective Department
American Bankers Association

The direct cost of all crimes in this country has now reached its highest peak. Statistics reveal startling increases in nearly every type of crime during the past ten years. The total financial loss through the operations of criminals is estimated at more than $3,500,000,000 for this year. A few of the items follow:

Embezzlement	$ 120,000,000
Credit frauds	400,000,000
Burglary, larceny, and petty thefts	250,000,000
Forgery, including worthless and bogus checks	100,000,000
Seaport robberies, piracies and customs frauds	100,000,000
Railroad thefts	25,000,000
Stock frauds	1,700,000,000
Insurance frauds	1,000,000,000
Arson	50,000,000
Miscellaneous	75,000,000

I am giving cold figures, not to startle any one unless it be toward more extreme care in handling and safeguarding funds and valuables. Right here let me quote rules to help foil criminals known as "check passers" or "scratchers"; they will help you to avoid serious loss:

1 Never write checks with a pencil. Use pen and ink or, if possible, a check protector

2 Fill in all blank spaces

3 Don't erase Errors should be corrected by writing a new check and destroying those incorrectly written

4 Never give a blank check to a stranger and never cash a stranger's check without an indorsement which you have positively verified

5 Make checks payable to "cash" or "bearer" only when you personally present them at your bank Otherwise use the name of the person you intend shall receive payment

6 Never place your signature alone as an indorsement on checks you intend to deposit. Write above or below your signature the words "For deposit only"

7 Never sign blank checks. If you expect to be absent any length of time open a separate account subject to check of your employee or agent.

8. Guard your cancelled vouchers as you would a valid check, leaving none where they may be easily taken

9 Keep your check books securely locked up and be careful how and where you sign or exhibit your signature

10 Beware of the magic of the word "certified." Ordinary certification stamps can be duplicated almost as easily as any other rubber stamp

11. Watch checks which apparently bear the makers' "O K" or other form of approval They are more easily forged than the full signature

12 Safeguard your checks as you would your money, for they represent money.

13 Deposit slips provide space for your name, usually upon the upper lines Those written incorrectly should be destroyed as otherwise your signature will be available for fraudulent use You can prevent loss by first writing the detail of amounts deposited and then printing your account name.

The bankers' campaign for everybody to "pay by check" has borne fruit. It has been estimated that today more than 95 per cent. of the business of the U. S. is transacted by the use of checks or other credit instruments. That means about six and one-half billion checks will be written by bank depositors in this country during 1924 and they will total about $500,000,000,000 in amount, or one hundred times the money in circulation.

Banks War on Crooks

The average bank depositor when queried as to what his bank does to protect his deposits, will probably tell you they are kept in a great vault and that armed watchmen are employed, as well as an elaborate and efficient burglary and robbery alarm system. He may not know that the 23,000 banks comprising the American Bankers Association have constantly and conveniently available an army of highly trained specialists who wage a continuous and relentless warfare against the bank criminal. These operatives are within easy reach of any member bank. Criminals know that if they attack a member bank they are attacking one of the most powerful and effective protective organizations in existence.

Another medium by which bankers prevent many financial crimes or losses is the warnings continually broadcast from the American Bankers Association and forty-eight state bankers associations These warnings keep the trap constantly set and carry out the Association's plan of crime prevention as contrasted with detection.

Danger Ahead

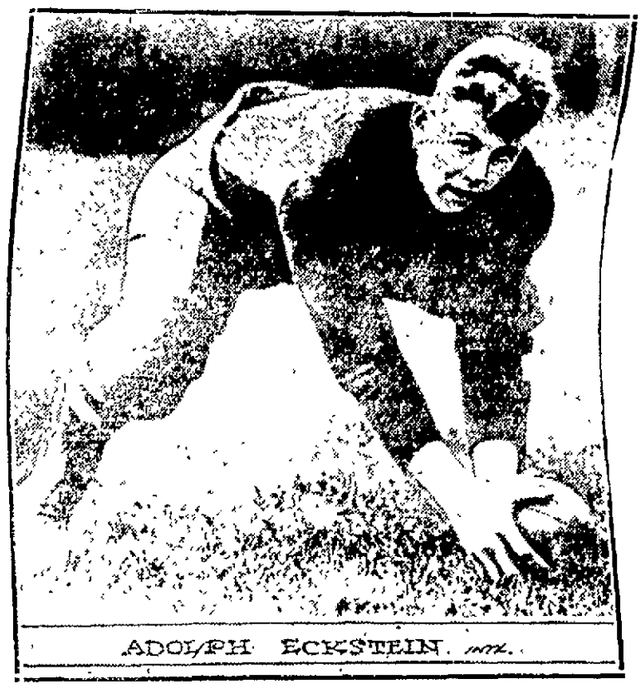
American farmers should not increase their wheat acreage for 1924. If they increase the acreage by three million acres, as is indicated by the intentions to Seed Wheat Survey of the government, and normal conditions again prevail in other wheat producing countries, next year's wheat market will be glutted and once more wheat prices will be ruinously low. The present high price of wheat is due to poor crops in other countries and in certain sections of the United States.—W. M. Jardine, Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

Where Bankers Come From

The smaller localities are to a large extent the recruiting ground for the profession of banking. A recent survey discloses the fact that of 682 senior bank officers in the largest cities of the United States, 406, or 60 per cent, were born in the country or in small towns.

Of the 682 senior bankers of large cities, 427, or approximately 62 per cent, had a high school or college education. The conclusion is reasonable that the smaller environment, coupled with an education, makes for success in the banking field.—American Bankers Association Journal.

LIFE BLOOD PAYS FOR COLLEGE TUITION



ADOLPH ECKSTEIN.

It has just been discovered that Adolph Eckstein, star of the Brown University, Providence, R. I., football team and captain of the wrestling team, has been working his way through college by selling his blood, in pint lots, for transfusions. Eckstein, considered an all-American centre, has been urged by the coaches to find some other means of earning his way through college, because they fear he will undermine his tremendous strength.

Odd Forms of "Money" Employed in Africa

There are three modes of buying and selling. The first is to exchange article for article, direct. The second is by using a useful medium of exchange, which we will call currency. The third is the Western method of using a useless object in exchange; this we will call money.

In South Africa we get the natives using cattle as currency, exchanging cattle for goods and the same cattle changing hands for other goods. More usually, however, we get barter pure and simple, ivory and useful objects to buy beads, trinkets, wire and other goods.

Further north, in the Transvaal, we get actual money, in the shape of home-made wire, with a rough knob on the end. Farther west, in the Congo, we find H-shaped copper plates used as money. On the Upper Congo we find imitation swords serving the purpose, while lower down on the Stanley Falls we find the ax blade. (In many South African tribes we get the hoe so used.) In Sierra Leone we get an amusing imitation knife blade; one end is thin and twisted, the other widening to two points. The BaSongo and BaNkutu on the Congo use throwing knives.

Passaic May Play Games Here

During Last Half Season of Metropolitan League—Business Men to Sell Tickets to Help Pay for Increased Guarantee.

The first half of the Metropolitan League ends as per scheduled on the thirtieth of November. The Passaic combination, managed by Manager Morgenweck, is the present leaders and have the following games to play before the half ends. Next Tuesday at Yonkers, on the 25th at Trenton and Paterson plays the final game at Passaic on the 29th.

If the Passaic team is successful in these games they will capture the first half honors. It is the intention of Manager Morgenweck to have the Passaic team play the last half games on the local court. The Metropolitan League is one of the best, if not the best league of the season and the games would bring together some of the outstanding players of the court here.

In order to get the teams to come here on account of the big jump from New Jersey, the local management has to pay a much larger guarantee. In order to meet this payment every game together with usual expenses it is necessary that a paying house witness the contests. A number of local business men have been in touch with Morgenweck and are working on a plan to sell season tickets to other business men of the city.

K. H. S. Eleven at Newburgh.

The Kingston High School football team is playing the Newburgh Academy eleven this afternoon at Newburgh. This is one of the hardest games on the local's schedule and also an important Duso League contest.

Manager Stanley Harris Is Banker in Washington

Manager Stanley Harris of the world's champion Washington Senators has joined the ranks of business men. He signed a contract with Redmond & Co., an investment banking house of Washington, beginning his new work after a short hunting trip and continuing until he takes his major league titleholders to Tampa, Fla., next spring to begin training for the 1925 campaign His headquarters will be in Washington.

"Barring accidents, I probably will have a long baseball career ahead of me," said Harris. "But the baseball season, including spring training, runs only from March to October. I'm certainly not going to idle away five months every year, no matter how successful I may be in baseball

"I have had several flattering business offers, but picked the banking profession because it holds such great opportunities for the future. In any event, I'm going to work just as hard as a banker as I did to land Washington on top in the American league and to beat the Giants in the world series."

Collins Next Manager

It is rumored in New York baseball circles that Eddie Collins is to be the next manager of the Chicago White Sox, or know the reason why. If President Comiskey does not give him the job Eddie is going to ask that he be traded and, this being refused, will retire from baseball.

Original Celtics Coming Here

It was announced at the basketball games at the ormory Friday night that the Original Centics would be the attraction at the armory court next Wednesday. The Shamrock wearers appeared here earlier in the season and were defeated by the Morgenweck outfit.

The claimants of the world championship will start on a western trip shortly, which will keep them busy until next spring. Morgenweck took this opportunity to bring the Celtics here before they departed for the west.

The Irish team, by name only, are not an easy outfit to defeat twice the same season and if the local team hangs up another win, which is altogether possible, the locals can claim something of the championship.

Morgenweckers Beat Crescents

The Morgenweck combination and the Crescent quintet played to a small house at the armory Friday evening. The game was not entirely interesting, but the score was close from start to finish. The final score was in favor of the local representatives, 24 to 15.

In the opening period both teams suffered severely from the shooting angle, the score at first half ending in the local team's advantage, 8 to 6.

M. Husta, besides being the best scorer with seven points, three from the floor and one from the correction line, also played his heavy opponent, and was with the ball at all times.

In the final half the Morgenweckers increased the lead and were never in danger. Kellett, playing center for the visitors, looked the best for the Crescents.

The score:

Crescents.

	F.G.	F.P.	Tot.
McElwain, rf.	1	2	4
Shay, lf.	1	1	3
Kellett, c	1	1	3
Shulteis, lg.	1	1	3
Yerkes, rg.	1	0	2
Total	5	5	15

Kingston.

Miller, c.	1	2	4
Artus, lg.	1	2	4
M. Husta, rg.	3	1	7
Sime, lf.	1	1	3
Total	8	8	24

Score at end of first half—Kingston, 8; Crescents, 6. Fouls committed—Kingston, 20; Crescents, 23. Referee—Davey.

Games Monday at St. Peter's Hall

Monday evening, at St. Peter's School Hall, the St. Peter's Lyceum quintet will meet the fast Beacon five in a contest that promises to be one of the best played here in some time.

The Saints have a strong line-up, being the same five that made the good record last season. The Beacon outfit beat the Saints last season, and the same players will be here Monday. Therefore the good game and the amount of interest in the coming struggle.

In the preliminary struggle, the Saints' Junior squad will meet the Mystics. The usual dancing will follow the main event.

Princeton-Yale Struggle Today

Tiger is 6 to 5 Favorite Over Yale Today at Princeton—Bingham Out of Game Gives Princeton Big Edge—The Probable Line-up.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15.—Folks in Kansas rish for their cellars and pull the doors in after them when they see a cyclone breezing in, but these dauntless boys of Dear Old Yale either are unfamiliar with the Kansas method or hold it in light esteem.

The betting that the Princeton cyclone of last Saturday will be only a gentle zepher this afternoon. They plan to step right out to meet it on its own happy hunting ground and early indications are that a nice time will be had by all. It was ever this.

Princeton and Yale have been meeting on the gridiron almost annually since 1873, and seldom, if ever before, has the outcome been in greater doubt. The Tiger, after an indifferent early season, was a literal cyclone against Harvard last week. Yale, undefeated this season although outplayed in the majority of its games, is alleged to have mustered the well and widely known air tight defense for the present occasion. But the general belief that there is a modicum of air in a cyclone has made the Tiger a 6 to 5 favorite and not without reason.

Yale's advantage was that it had seen Princeton uncover the strategic hand against Harvard while the Bull Dog has been able to preserve an unbeaten record to date without showing much, if anything. However, the general idea was that Bill Roper still had a few plays to spring upon an unsuspecting Yale defense after the Harvard game and that he would parade them before the public in due course this afternoon.

Another Yale advantage was more or less psychological. Seemingly, it has been able to beat Princeton when it could defeat no one else. Of the 47 games played, Yale has won 25, lost 13 and tied 9.

But, apparently Princeton has the better line, the better ends with Bingham out of it, the better punters in Slagle and Williams and the beter attack in general.

The probable line-up:

Princeton.	Position.	Yale.
Stout	L.E.	Gill
Beattie	L.T.	Joss
Hills	L.G.	Sturhahn
McMillan	C.	Lovejoy
Howard	R.G.	Root
Gates	R.T.	Butterworth
Drews	R.E.	Luman
Dinsmore	Q.B.	Bunnell
Dignan	L.H.B.	Allen
Slagle	R.H.B.	Pond
Caldwell	F.B.	Cottle

SHOT BIG WILDCAT IN SULLIVAN COUNTY

All the thrills of wounding an angry lion or tiger were experienced Monday by George Houck of Wurtsboro before he killed a wildcat that measured five feet from tip to tip says The Liborty Register. Mr. Houck crippled the cat with a bullet through the hind quarters but despite the wound the animal continued its snarling course toward him until a second shot stopped it. The wildcat was one of the largest ever seen in Sullivan county and was shot by Mr. Houck while hunting between Haven and Yankee Lake.

Leading Grid Games Today

Yale-Princeton and Cornell-Dartmouth in East—Notre Dame-Nebraska in West and Alabama-Centre College in South are Today's Important Games.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 15.—Every section of the country, east, west and south was to play host to football games of prime importance this afternoon. In the east, the big meeting between Yale and Princeton in the latter's stronghold, with the Cornell-Dartmouth, Pennsylvania-Penn State and Pittsburgh-W and J., games running it a close second.

In the west, Notre Dame and Nebraska were furnishing the firework at South Bend, Ind., Notre Dame playing on its home field, was sure to make a terrific effort to reverse the decisions gained by Nebraska during the last two years. Other big games in the west included meetings between Michigan and Ohio State, Chicago and Northwestern, Illinois and Minnesota, Kansas and Oklahoma, Grinnell and Iowa State and Oregon and Washington State.

The south's leading games involved the unbeaten Alabama team with Centre College, Georgia Tech with Vanderbilt and Georgia University with Alabama Poly.

SWIFT BACKFIELD TO HIT CORNELL TODAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Nov. 15.—Dartmouth's big green team, favored to win from Cornell and avenge drubbings in three consecutive years by Gil Dobies men, brought a season's record unmarred by defeat to the Polo Grounds today for the game which held second interest on eastern gridirons.

Dartmouth may lay a claim to eastern supremacy, or consideration with other claimants on the strength of a victory today. A fight was expected, however, as the Cornell machine advanced rapidly since the discovery of Molinet as plunging half-back gave the red an unexpected victory over Columbia two weeks ago.

Oberlander, Hall, Leavitt and Dooley, one of the best backfields in the east, is the combination Cornell hopes to stop.

French Lower Record

The world's 24-hour automobile record was lowered by a French car of 2,000 cubic centimeters piston displacement, driven alternately by Marin, Merle and Grosa, on the Montlhery speedway in an official trial. The car covered 2,010,193 kilometers (approximately 1,824⅛ miles) and continued on to the 3,000-kilometer (1,864.15 miles) mark, which was made in 24:42:05.6.

Schalk's Mark Broken

Ray Schalk's great record for catching 100 or more games each season is soon to pass into the discard Schalk for ten consecutive years has performed in 100 or more games every year for the White Sox. Numerous injuries this season made it impossible for him to come through. He had hoped to stretch the record to 12 years.
